Since that first encounter, the relationship between the two groups has continued to grow. Council members have been invited to the youth center, and young people have appeared at more conferences to share their stories.

Adjust the goggles like this... WHOA...

Valuable lessons have emerged from these interactions!

Lesson #1: Leverage Technology

After the big school shooting, there were flyers up all over for counseling, but nobody went.

Then our organization figured out how to use an app for people to connect anonymously...

Counseling here!

"We were able to plan an event with fighting robots. It was awesome, and people actually started to talk and share their struggles."

Lesson #2: Show Gratitude

Thank you, pediatricians and psychiatrists, for listening today.

Thank you for everything you do.

Actually, we should be grateful to our patients.

Right!
